Brief Profile

Dr. Shashanka Bhide is currently working as a Senior Research Counselor and Senior Fellow at NCAER, New Delhi. He has been associated with the macroeconomic modeling at NCAER for several years. He has also worked with both short-term Social Accounting Matrix based CGE models and also the macroeconometric models for India. He currently supervises the quarterly Business Expectations Surveys carried out by NCAER for a number of years. He also briefly worked as Professor and Head of RBI Unit at Institute for Social and Economic Change, Bangalore. He has worked in a project related assignment at the Australia South Asia Research Center, Australian National University, Canberra and also held short periods of Visiting Fellowship at the Foundation for Advanced Studies in International Development, Tokyo.

His current research program includes macroeconomic modelling, decentralisation issues and poverty reduction. He has a Ph.D. in agricultural economics from Iowa State University, Ames, M.Sc from Indian Agricultural Research Institute in New Delhi and B. Sc in agriculture from University of Agricultural Sciences, Bangalore.