

Speaker's Profile

Professor Amit Shovon Ray is Professor of Economics at the Centre for International Trade and Development, School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. He was educated at Presidency College, Calcutta and at the University of Oxford. Presently, he is on leave from JNU on an invitation to hold a Chair (Chair Professor of Trade, Technology and Competitiveness) at ICRIER.

Professor Ray has held research and teaching positions at premier Universities and Institutions in India and abroad, including Oxford University Institute of Economics and Statistics, International Food Policy Research Institute (Washington DC), Jawaharlal Nehru University (New Delhi), University of Calcutta (Kolkata) and Indian Institute of Technology (Delhi).

He is a Fellow of the Royal Society for the Promotion of Health (FRSH, London) and a Member of the Independent Commission on Development and Health in India (ICDHI, New Delhi). He has been a Consultant to various national and international bodies, including the Planning Commission (Government of India), The World Bank, UNCTAD, Voluntary Health Association of India (VHAI, New Delhi) and the Indian Council for Research on International Economic Relations (ICRIER, New Delhi).

Professor Ray is a development economist and has researched on issues of technology and R&D, globalization and economic reforms, intellectual property rights, FDI, trade in services, pharmaceutical industry, and health care. He has published extensively, nationally and internationally and has presented his research at seminars and conferences in different parts of the world – Brazil, Canada, China, India, Pakistan, Spain, South Africa, Switzerland, Taiwan, Thailand, UK, USA.